Director's Comments

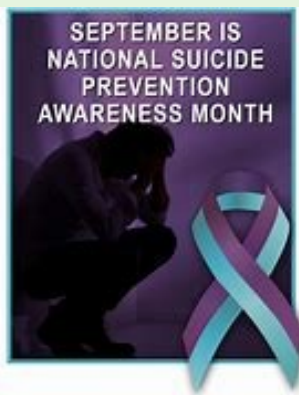

I hope this newsletter finds you all well. As you have noticed over the past several months we transitioned to virtual services; thank you for your patience as we navigated this challenge. As we have heard the Center for Disease Control recommends social distancing, however, this does not mean we need to practice social isolation. Although we are currently not meeting for in-person appointments, we still have individual sessions and many groups available. To combat social isolation we have created some exciting new groups to include the motivational speaking series, photography group, and drop-in socialization group. If you are struggle with social isolation, or are simply interested, please take a look at some of these groups.

Lastly, I want to share that Deena Sapp has accepted a position at the Watertown Vet Center. Deena's loss from this Vet Center I know will be felt by both the staff and veterans as she has been impactful in the lives of many. As difficult as it is to see her depart the Syracuse Vet Center, I am genuinely happy for time she will gain with her family by working and living in the same city as her family. The Watertown Vet Center is gaining an excellent clinician, who I have no doubt will bring the same meaningful impact to Watertown that she brought to Syracuse.

With Deena's departure comes a vacancy. We have already begun the recruiting process and our selection has accepted the tentative offer. We anticipate the new hire will begin on the week of October 11, 2020. Once an official offer has been accepted we will announce who the person is.

Deena's Farewell

It is with bittersweet sentiments that I announce my transfer to the Watertown Vet Center, effective September 2020. I have been afforded the opportunity to relocate making active duty military life a bit simpler for our family, while still having the privilege of working with Veterans, maintaining the same purpose and mission that has grown near and dear to my heart. Whether I had the opportunity to connect with you via individual, couples, group counseling, or simply in crossing paths in the waiting room over a cup of coffee, I truly appreciate the way you have all welcomed me into the Vet Center family for the past 6 years. I am humbled by each of your personal sacrifice of service, your journey that was created as result, and your willingness to allow me to walk a part of the path with you in exploring your future. I thank you, warmly, for teaching me and impacting me in ways that are far greater than anything I could leave with you. May you stay safe and be well.
